

WORKING ON WATER SOUTHERN PROGRAM

The WoW Program was created in 2008 to introduce students from Years 9 and 10 to a wide range of career opportunities in the marine sector. WoW is a 'hands on' 3 day career pathway program that will introduce students to the diverse range of professions available on, in and around the marine environment. The range of careers available in Tasmania is incredibly diverse, and includes positions in the seafood industry, marine sciences and tourism.

During the 3 day program students will have tours of workplaces such as seafood processing plants and aquaculture facilities to see in action what it's like to work in the seafood industry. Additionally there will be talks by IMAS staff which will give an insight into the diverse roles of scientists and how science feeds back into the management of Tasmanian seafood. There will also be tours of other marine sectors, such as marine police, tourism and plenty more of those employed in the marine world. This will provide students with an authentic, 'real world' and out-of-classroom experience, seeing and hearing how you can get into different jobs, and what is involved once you are working.

Student applications can be submitted online via the WoW website. Applications can be submitted as a short video OR cover letter. See website for details.

WHO MAKES IT POSSIBLE?

The Tasmanian Seafood Industry Council (TSIC) is responsible for the organisation of the WoW program agenda. TSIC organises where we go, who we meet, and what we taste.

TSIC is the peak body representing the interests of the wild capture fishers, marine farmers and seafood processors in Tasmania. TSIC relies on a diverse range of industry stakeholders to provide the funding and in-kind support needed to run the program.
